

SUSPECTED ADVERSE DRUG REACTION REPORTING FORM

ACADEMIC CASE EXERCISE — FICTIONAL PATIENT / FICTIONAL CASE

A. PATIENT INFORMATION

Field	Details
1. Patient initials	R.K.
2. Age / Sex	28 years / Male
3. Weight	70 kg
4. Location	Vadodara, Gujarat

B. SUSPECTED ADVERSE DRUG REACTION

Field	Details
5. Date reaction started	26/09/2026
6. Description of reaction	Urticaria (hives), generalized itching and mild facial swelling.
7. Time to onset	Approximately 30 minutes after the suspected drug was taken.
8. Seriousness	Not serious; no hospitalization, disability, life-threatening event or congenital anomaly.
9. Relevant tests / laboratory data	Not applicable for this academic case.
10. Relevant medical / medication history	No significant medical history. No known drug allergy reported.

C. SUSPECTED / CONCOMITANT MEDICATIONS

Drug	Dose / Route	Start / Date	Indication	Action / Outcome
Amoxicillin	500 mg orally	26/09/2026; single dose	Suspected infection	Stopped; reaction resolved
Paracetamol	500 mg orally	26/09/2026	Fever/pain	Continued; no reaction noted

D. OUTCOME AND CAUSALITY ASSESSMENT

Item	Recorded information
15. Outcome	Recovered
Treatment / management	Amoxicillin withdrawn; supportive treatment provided. Symptoms subsided and patient recovered.
Causality assessment	Probable — temporal relationship and improvement after withdrawal support an association.
Rechallenge	Not performed.

E. REPORTER INFORMATION

Field	Details
16. Name and professional address	Dr. A. Patel (Fictional), Academic Case Exercise, Vadodara, Gujarat
PIN	390001
E-mail	academic.case@example.com
Contact No.	+91-90000-00000
Occupation	Medical / Pharmacy Professional — fictional academic entry
17. Causality assessment	Probable
18. Date of this report	27/09/2026

Confidentiality: This document is a fictional academic exercise. No real patient's identity or clinical record is represented. Patient initials, contact details and reporter details are fictional.

Case classification: Type B ADR — unpredictable and not dose dependent. The case is presented solely for ADR-reporting practice.